

Nika Sandler's Spore Archive

An independent archive dedicated to the long-term preservation of artworks, publications, research materials, and digital traces.

“Nothing survives alone.”

About

Nika Sandler is an artist working across photography, text, and AI-based image-making.

Nika Sandler's Spore Archive is an ongoing archival project focused on preserving artworks, publications, metadata, documentation, and related materials across multiple repositories.

The archive combines institutional infrastructures, decentralized storage, and independent preservation strategies. It aims not only to preserve artistic works but also to document the practice of digital archiving itself.

Main Repositories

- Internet Archive
- OSF
- Figshare
- Zenodo
- GitHub Repository

Additional Archives

- Rhizome Conifer
- Flickr
- Google Drive
- MEGA

Associated Collections

- Works preserved in Memory of Mankind.
- The zine The Black Sun of Autocracy preserved in the archive of The Photographers' Gallery.

Preservation Principles

- Multiple geographically distributed copies.
- Use of open formats (TIFF, PNG, PDF/A, WARC, TXT, CSV).
- Persistent identifiers (DOI).
- Public accessibility.
- Long-term documentation.

Documentation

- Archive of Nika Sandler
- ORCID
- Previous Archive Website

Last updated: July 2026

Nika Sandler's Spore Archive is an evolving archive and preservation project.